

I Am Not The Rule Police!

Sometimes I like to tell people what to do.

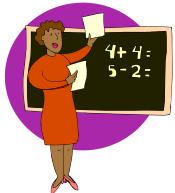

I will try hard to not tell my friends what to do. It is not my job to make people follow the rules. I am not the rule police! If I tell other people what rules to follow or when I tattle on them for not following rules, it bothers my friends.

Sometimes it's okay for me to tell people what rules to follow.

When I am the teacher, I can be the rule police.

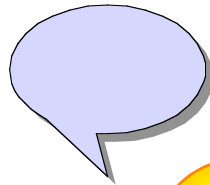

I can tell people the rules if they ask me.

If someone is breaking a rule that could cause danger to themselves or other people, I should tell an adult.

If someone is bothering me, I can use my words to tell them I am upset.

If someone hurts me, I should tell an adult.

Sometimes it's hard to not tell people what to do. I will try my best to remember that I am not the rule police.
